Dear Nick,

RE: Combisafe Site Stairway

The Combisafe Site Stairway has been designed to conform to the dimensional requirements of BS EN 12811-1:2003. The Class B Stairway dimensions of this Standard comply with the requirements for temporary stairways in the forthcoming revision of AS/NZS 1576.1.

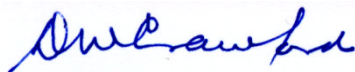

The Combisafe stair tread design loads stated in BS EN 12811-1 comply with the stair tread design loads in the forthcoming revision of AS/NZS 1576.1.

The Combisafe stairway edge protection design loads stated in BS EN 12811-1 are similar but not identical to the edge protection design loads in the forthcoming revision of AS/NZS 1576.1.

Based on information you have provided the Combisafe Site Stairway has been tested to establish conformity with BS EN 12811.

On the basis of the above information I certify that the Combisafe Site Stairway designed to comply with BS EN 12811 achieves a similar level of safety to a stairway designed to comply with the forthcoming revision of AS/NZS 1576.1.

Yours sincerely,

D W Crawford BE (NSW), ASTC
